VOL. XI. NO. 4. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., PA., SATURDAY, AUGUST 13, 1910. One Cent

CHARLEROI HIGH SCHOOL WILL GET APPROPRIATION

School Board Complies With Law in all Respects.

SOME INCREASE EXPECTED

More Pupils Now Than When Last Year's Appropriation Was Made.

The Charleroi High School will not suffer from lack of a state appropriation, as some high schools in the county may if a report is not forthcoming immediately. The report of the Charleroi high school as well as the report of the common school has been filed with the state superintendent, and the usual appropriation will be forthcoming.

Some of the high schools of the county have failed to send in their annual report to County Superintendent L. R. Crumrine, and unless these are in his hands and have been forwarded to state Superintendent Nathan C. Schaffer by the first of September the chances are that these schools will be knocked out of their appropriation.

The Charleroi schools are not under the jurisdiction of Superintendent Crumrine, but a report is made directly to the state. A complete report is necessary for the high school and the common school and these were sent in some time ago properly filled out, and signed by President J. M. Hill and secretary Ira L. Nickeson of the school board, and Supt. James G. Pentz of the schools. The high school report has to certify as to the number of pupils in the high school, the length of the term, the length of the course and a number of other incidentals. Charleroi has only a three year course and the appropriation is not as large as it would be for a four year course, although the difference would be slight.

Charleroi's high school appropriation last year was $345, but some increase is anticipated this year, on account of the increase in the number of pupils. The common school appropriation was $7,297.79. It is stated that the idea of a four year high school course is an much favored at the present time, and furthermore it is said, many of the present pupils would drop out if the length of the course was increased.

The prizes to be contested for at the Business Men,'s outing next Wednesday at Eldora Park, are being displayed in the window of J. B. Schafer's jewelry store.

Gold Band Ring Causes Trouble

Woman Who Lost One Thought it Was Being Worn by Another.

A gold band ring was the source of considerable trouble the past week which ended last night in a lawsuit before a Roscoe justice of the peace. It is said that Mrs. Mary Wilson lost a ring. One day she got hold of a ring of Mrs. Louis Glasser's, it is understood, and claimed it as her property. Mrs. Glasser sued Mrs. Wilson and the outcome was the hearing last night, in which Mrs Wilson lost, and had to return the ring and pay the costs of prosecution.

CORNER BASKETS PROVIDED

Monessen Civic Club Makes Effort to Keep Town Clean.

ASK AID OF CITIZENS

The Civic committee of the Board of Trade of Monessen has just had placed on the business streets of the twon receptacles for waste paper and other refuse matter with the hope of educating the people to assist in keeping the town clean. The expense is borne by the organization and the present has been made to the town. There has been a general complaint at Monessen that streets were rife with refuse that should have been thrown in receptacles and this with the general appearance of the thoroughfares at times prompted the action of the Board of Trade to provide a means of cleanliness.

The park amusements will be at the disposl of the visitors, and a program of amusements being planned by the committee in charge will add to the means of enjoyment. Dancing will be a feature all afternoon and evening. The committee in charge of the affair consists of Irene Lee. S B. Batch, Sarah Thornton, J. G. Lee, and Capt. William Catlin.

Surprise Party

Several of the Charleroi friends of Miss Francis and Chauncey Hapgood, of Pittsburg, who have been the guests of Miss Linnie McClure of Washington avenue, tendered them a surpriselast night at the latter's home. A pleasant evening was spent with various social diversions.

NEW WRINKLE FOR THE CHARLEROI AUDITORS

Have Been in Habit of Filing School Audit, But Never Before Audit of Borough Finances.

For the first time in history the auditors for the borough of Charleroi this year filed a report of the audit of the borough finances in the Clerk of Courts office at Washington. The filing of the audit was made compulsory through a new law enacted by the last legislature.

It has been the custom of the auditors to file an audit of the school finances after the work of auditing the books has been completed but to file a copy of the borough audit is entirely a new wrinkle for the borough auditors. The auditors this year were H. F. Parsons, J. G. Albright and Harry Hormell.

Many auditors in the county have not taken cognizance of the change in the law, and as a result have not filed the necessary paper with the Clerk of Courts.

CHILDREN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Fruit Wagon Overturns and Youngsters are Thrown Underneath.

Two children of Charles Stoffel, of Fallowfield township, formerly of Charleroi, had a narrow escape from serious injury this morning, when a wagon in which they were riding overturned at the corner of Second street and Washington avenue. Mr. Stoffel had brought some garden produce in and was disposing of it from do or to door. He told the children to drive the horse up the Second street hill and they started it.

After getting part way up the animal commenced to back and the wagon overturned in a drain. The children fell underneath, and the produce was thrown from the wagon The children were practically unhurt, and most of the fruit and vegetables was recovered.

Last week the barn of Mr. Stoffel in Fallowfield township was burned, after having been struck by ligtning, and considerable hay destroyed.

CAMPMEETING AT BENTLEYVILLE

Big Sunday Crowds Expected for Tomorrow and the Following Sunday.

The twentieth annual session of the Bentleyville Union Holiness campmeeting was opened yesterday. The sessions will continue daily and nightly until August 22. Nearly every cottage on the grounds is occupied.

The Rev. C. A. English will have charge of the platform and general direction of all sessions. The young peoples meeting will be in charge of Mrs Rebecca Bell Griffith. Rev. Frederick A. Gould of Allegheny, will be present throughout the session and will assist in all of the services.

The music will be in charge of J. E. Parry of Galion, Ohio. Following will be the order of the services for each day: Morning Prayers, People's Meeting, preaching in the morning, Children's Meetings, Preachers' Hour, afternoon Preaching, Young People's Meeting and Evening Service.

Many Charleroi people are expected to attend on both Sundays and record breaking crowd is anticipated. Many are already camping at the camp grounds.

MONESSEN TROUBLED BY BUM STREET SIGNS

Burgess Daniel Reamer of Monessen has been importuned by a number of citizens of that borough to declare the unsightly street sign a nuisance and to issue a order to have them taken down.

As a result merchants and others who have signs protruding across the streets of the town will soon be served with notices to remove them within a certain time or the city will do the work at their expense.

Another source of annoyance about which Monessen people are complaining is the low awning which it is argued cause pedestrians no end of inconvenience.

GOEHRING FAMILY TO HOLD REUNION

Many Expected to Attend Affair in Allegheny County Next Week.

The third annual reunion of the Goehring family, one of the largest and most distinguished families in Western Pennsylvania, and which included in its ranks the late District Attorney H. L. Goehring, Senator John M. Goehring and many other persons equally as well known in business and professional circles will be held in the grove of Charles Goehring at Eckert Station, Beaver County, on the line of the Pittsburg, Harmony and New Castle road, on Wednesday, August 17. All who are related through ties of blood or marriage have been invited. L. H. Goehring of Charleroi is one of the family and will probably attend the reunion.

GOT 51 CENTS; NOT FIFTY TWO AS REPORTED

The following communication has been received by the Mail relative to the claim of 52 cents on a paving assessment at North Charleroi.

JUSTICE

To the Hon. Members who compose that august body—the council of North Charleroi:

Greeting.

We presume and now know for a certainty—that presumption was not an erroneous one—that some of the honorable members were poor, but not so poor as to make a squeal of fifty-two cents (52) and also to make up that deficit in pennies, nickels and dimes. Fifty two cents! We shudder to think what it might have been if the deficit had been 25 cents. No doubt we would have had to go on their bond for the other penny. Gladly too, since we justly got our own.

Fifty-two cents for a fraction of an inch of paving. For only a fraction! Think what a whole inch would cost. I'm very much afraid the whole councilmani body would have gone into bankruptcy on a whole inch.

The woman who received "fiftyone cents."

Mrs. W. L. Cline.

West Virginia Development

Railroad lines through West Virginia either under actual construction or already authorized, are said by railroad men to forcast the fact that before long that state will rank with Pennsylvania, if not ahead of it, as a coal producing territory. Conservative estimates of the coal output of West Virginia for 1910 by operators of that state place the figures at 40,000,000 tons, which will break all previous mining records. The operators state that the West Virginia coal mines are increasing output records at a rapid rate and say the figures in 1912. will be enormous. While West Virginia is now ranking among the leading states in the union in the coal output, she has also grown in the production of coke.

Rev. C. S. Joshua, pastor of the First Baptist church, has returned home from a three week's visit in the eastern part of the state, and will occupy his pulpit Sunday. Mrs. Joshua will remain in the east for a time.

BIG MONESSEN PLANT WILL NOT CLOSE INDEFINITELY

Spike Put in Persistent Rumor by Supt. Nash.

COMPANY HAS BIG KICK

Assessment Was Increased Too Much for Comfort, According to Officials.

It has been rumored during the past few days that the Pittsburg Steel plant at Monessen is due to close down for good, but a plug was effectively put in the rumor yesterday by Superintendent George Nash, who gave out the following statement:

"The mill will shut down in all departments on Saturday evening, August 13, 1910, to resume work again on Monday morning, August 29, 1910

It is usual for the steel plant to close down two weeks during the year for repairs. An incident which may cause some trouble unless an alleged mistake is rectified in connection with the steel company, and which may have given some foundation to the rumor is that of a big increase in the triennial assessment of the valuation of the plant. The company has declared that it will not pay taxes on its property regularly until it has fought the matter out in court and has exposed many irregularities. Gross injustice to the company is charged, which it is claimed is verified by the following figures taken from the company's statement to the Monessen News:

The assessed valuation of the entire town the last triennial assessment was $4,826,937 of which the Pittsburg Steel company was $500,000. The total assessed valuation this time is $5,554,850 of which $1,500,000 is assessed to the Pittsburg Steel. This shows an increase of only $727,913 in the total assessed valuation of the entire town this time over the last triennial assessment, while the Pittsburg Steel company alone has been loaded up with $1,000,000, more than before, which means all other mills in town and private property have been reduced in valuation $272,087.

It is claimed the other mills in the town were not treated as the steel company was in the assessment.

Work on New Road Well Under Way

Part of Grading on Monongahela-Donora Highway Finished.

The grading for the improved road between Monongahela and Donora has been completed to the site of the old Baird station, formerly known as Harlem. Brick is also on the ground, ready for placing, just as soon as the foundation is made ready.

The improvement also calls for some fine concrete culverts over the various runs, and which are being rapidly placed. The steam shovel is at work the other side of the site of the old "Buzzard" tipple.

PLEAS ARE ENTERED BY OFFENDERS

Two Sentenced at Washington for Liquor Selling.

HEAVY FINES IMPOSED

Peter Roskisch of Monongahela, charged with selling liquor without license and on Sunday, by George Machaleksy, admitted his guilt yesterday to the court and was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $550 and undergo an imprisonment in the work house for three months and 20 days.

Mike Sphar, on similar charges, preferred by M. R. Conley of McDonald, was given the same sentence

John Albert entered a plea of guilty to charges preferred by Augustine Wasar of carrying concealed deadly weapons, wantonly pointing fire arms and assault. He was given a 30-day jail sentence with a fine of $10 and costs.

Walter Martin pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery made by Matilda Martin. He was sentenced to pay the costs or give security to pay the same within 30 days.

METHODISTS HOLD PICNIC AT PARK

Good Old Fashioned Time Enjoyed by Local Sunday School.

The Sunday School of the Methodist Episcopal church held their annual outing and picnic at Eldora Park yesterday and a large number of the members of the Sunday school and their friends attended. The day was a perfect picnic day and the crowd attending enjoyed themselves to the utmost. Dinners were taken and a picnic lunchwas a feature. During the afternoon some races were run and a good time enjoyed generally. It was late evening before all the people left the park.

POLICE RULES STRINGENT FOR THE CROSSINGS

The police rules of the Pennsylvania railroad are becoming mere stringent. Instructions have been issued to patrolmen that in the future crossing the tracks at any point except a public crossing will be considered a violation of the law and that it will be their duty to prohibit all such unnecessary traffic. In sections where campers have taken advantage of spots along river divisions to erect camp on the opposite side of the track from the river. this new rule will effect such parties rather seriously. They have been warned against crossing the tracks. The railroad men claim that such action is necessary for the maintenance of high speed trains and the reduction in accidents.

Mr. and Mrs J. Bryant Tussing and children and Mrs. C. Finch have gone to Chautauqua, where they will spend some time.

J. K. Tener, Pres. S. A. Walton, Vice Pres. R. H. Rush, Cashier.

Gas Rates are Soaring

The Canonsburg Notes puts the blame for an increase in natural gas rates on Town Councils of the borough in Western Pennsylvania. It says:

"Throughout Western Pennsylvania the rates for natural gas are almost everywhere being advanced. It is understood that our own town is not to be slighted in this particular. We, it is said, will have to take our dose of medicine along with the rest. Now in connection with the advance of gas rates there is a curious thing. Go to the different towns and ask the clerks of the councils to permit you to examine the ordinances governing the furnishing of natural gas and what do you find? Why, in nine cases out of ten, long complicated ordinances, with many "shalls," and "shall nots," many of them concerning matter of very little importance, but in the one great vital point of fixing a maximum price not one word will you find. It is so in our town. Why is this so? Let those answer who are framed the law and passed it? It is too much for us.

"It is not so with regard to water. In the ordinance granting a franchise to the water company there is a maximum rate fixed, and it cannot be exceeded. But with regard to gas rates, not a word. Again we ask why? Possibly because the gas company had many good friends in council in the days when the ordinance was adopted. At any rate the council and the burgess left the people at the mercy of the managers of a great corporation which is all the time ready to add on a little more and the reason they can and do give is that 'they need the money.' It is a nice state of affairs."

Not Significant

Some of the insurgents appear anxious to make trouble for those who don't agree with their politics and they jump at conclusions. They give out word that Mr. Roosevelt "sides with the insurgents" because he has agreed to speak from the same platform with Mr. Garfield and Mr. Pinchot. Since the subject the gentlemen are going to discuss is conservation of the country's natural resources thoughtful people will fail to see any political significance in their appearance on the same platform.—Uniontown News Standard.

Mens Clothes

There is an American tariff saying that a cheap coat makes a cheap man. But there is the word of an expert at the Garden sartorial show that not even $500 waist coats, with buttons of precious stones, can make well dressed men, according to the New York World. Indeed, a fellow may spend $5,000 to $6,000 a year on his apparel and still not pass the test of the critics. No more than it is all of life to live or all of death to die is it all good dressing to squander money on the tailor.

Clothes, we gather, must fit the wearer. But they must also fit the occasion. Moreover, to compete the effect they must be carried well.

As to occasional garments, they form an issue more and more complicated occasions and particularly diversions, multiply. Men go to business. They attend afternoon functions. They drive. They dine. They go to the opera. They motor. They play golf or tennis or baseball. They row, ride or hunt. They lounge. They sit at the club. They are beginning to fly. Each pursuit and every kind of weather has its own outfit. One lives up to the rigor of the wardrobe or encounters the condescension of the leader of fashion.

Our little life if we live by the fashions, is filled and rounded with a change of clothes.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Many a pleasure resort is touted as a restful place, but a fellow generally looks worn out when he gets back from a visit there.

The former boss in this county is alleged to be sore. That is more sore than usual. He alleges it is because the Republican party is going to carry on an active campaign, but evidences are that it might be because he was not named for Congress.

Oh my! Those nasty officers have arrested people from a nice refined gambling place at Narraganset Pier. Isn't it just too horrid for anything.

It is asserted that modern science has come within 15,000,000 years of accurately fixing the age of the earth as a solid body, but the average person could guess a little closer than that.

Alumni Planning For an Outing

The Charleroi High School Alumni association is planning to hold an outing and picnic on the afternoon and the evening of Thursday, August 18 at Eldora Park. Filled baskets will be taken along for a picnic supper and the evening will be spent in dancing and with other amusements.

Hattie Marker, aged 18 of Monongahela, was yesterday turned over to the officers of the department of charities by Magistrate Winters, at the South Side, Pittsburg, station. The girl was arrested at the foot of South Twenty-first street by Policeman H. S. Gardener, where she was talking to Frank Muttzo and John Gelzheiser. The men were also arrested.

Yesterday the girl was released from the workhouse, where she served a short term. The men were discharged.

Magistrate Winters is of the opinion the girl is slightly demented and turned her over to the city charity officers, who will have her examined.

Mrs. Samuel Gaskill and children of North Charleroi left today for New Philadelphia, Ohio to attend a church reunion.

Reptiles That Walk Erect.

Lizards of several sorts can walk and run easily on their hind legs. The Australian water lizard, which is three or four feet in length, keeps quite erect when traversing long distances on land. It is found in the neighborhood of river banks and passes much of its time in shallow water.

The frilled lizard of Queensland also travels on its hind legs on level ground, keeping the frill folded when running. When attacked it expands this fold of skin, which stands out like a ruff at right angles round the neck, giving it a most formidable aspect, so that dogs that attack and kill larger lizards will often retreat before a frilled lizard at bay.

There is also a tree lizard in Australia that moves in a similar way. All these species walk on all fours when merely moving about or going short distances.

Party's Fate on One Vote.

Instances are common enough in elections when a single vote turns the scale, but for that vote to decide not only the fate of a candidate, but of a party as well, is rare. Yet a majority of one in parliament, which may logically depend on a majority of one in the country, has worked some of the most momentous results possible. The classical example is the act of union of 1799, certainly among the largest, most important and most remarkable changes ever accomplished by a legislative body. One hundred and six voted for it and 105 against. Then a majority of one carried the great reform bill in 1832.

Majorities only a little bigger have again and again been responsible for farreaching consequences. A majority of five threw out the Melbourne government in 1839. By the same figure Lord John Russell's government was defeated in 1856. Gladstone went out of office in 1873 because he lacked three votes, and the public education act, one of the most important ever passed, was placed on the statute book by a majority of two.—London Chronicle.

TIME TO ACT

Don't Wait for the Fatal Stages of Kidney Illness. Profit by Charleroi People's Experiences.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are common early symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time but return with greater intensity. If these are symptoms of dropsy—puffy swellings below the eyes, bloating of limbs and ankles, or any part of the body, don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up the treatment until the kidneys are well, when your old time health and vigor will return. Cures in Charleroi prove the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

Mrs. John Wilson, Third street, Charleroi, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Piper Bros.' Drug Store, have been used in our family for backache and other symptoms of kidney trouble and they have always you brought great relief. I took this remedy several years ago for disordered kidneys and in view of the good results received I recommend it highly."

The Light of the Stars.

Various endeavors have been made to estimate the light of the stars. In the northern hemisphere Argelander has registered 324,000 stars down to the nine and a half magnitude, and with the aid of the best photometric data Agnes M. Clerk's "System of the Stars" gives the sum of the light of these northern stars as equivalent to 1-440 of full moonlight, while the total light of all stars similarly enumerated in both hemispheres, to the number of about 900,000, is roughly placed at 1-180 of the lunar brightness. The scattered light of still fainter celestial bodies is difficult to compute. By a photographic method Sir William Abbey rated the total starlight of both hemispheres at 1-100 of full moonlight, and Professor Newcomb from visual observations of all stars at just 728 times that of Capella, or 1-80 of the light of the full moon.

It is not certain, however, that the sky would be totally dark if all stars were blotted out. Certain processes make the upper atmosphere strongly luminous at times, and we cannot be sure that this light would be totally absent.—Harper's Weekly.

A Dutch Fishing Fleet.

If the traveler wants to get a real glimpse of picturesque Holland, a glimpse which shall long be a happy memory, let him journey to the old fishing village of Scheveningen, not far from The Hague. Its fishing fleet is an imposing one and is best seen at night, when the boats are drawn up on the beach. Each has a number, and these are painted on the sides in such large figures that they can be read at a considerable distance. At night when the fishermen begin to come to land the women of the village walk down to the beach with their knitting in their hands to meet them. They wear their wooden shoes, some of which are made to look especially clean by an application of whiting, and they make a merry clatter as they go. Industry is characteristic of the women of Holland in all walks of life. They must always be at work of some kind, and it would seem as if more knitting needles must be used in Holland than in any other country in the world.—E. J. Farrington in Interior.

The Old Time English School.

Until comparatively recent times public school boys in England had many hardships to endure. As late as 1834 a writer who spoke from experience said that "the inmates of a workhouse or a jail were better fed and lodged than the scholars of Eton." Boys whose parents could not pay for a private room underwent privations that might have broken down a cabin boy and would be thought inhuman if inflicted on a galley slave.

"They rose at 5, winter and summer, and breakfasted four hours later, the interval being devoted to study, after they had swept their rooms and made their beds. The only washing accommodation was a pump. The diet consisted of an endless round of mutton, potatoes and beer, none of them too plentiful or too good.

"To be starved," says this writer, "frozen and flogged—such was the daily life of the scions of England's noblest families."

Edward Everett.

Edward Everett was one of the most purely literary of all American orators. Among the more eminent scholars and statesmen of our land no one has ever been more deservedly honored for intellectual power, purity of character, public and private, and for clearness and perception of judgment than Everett. To the efforts of Edward Everett more than to any other one person is to be credited the raising of funds sufficient to purchase the home of Washington at Mount Vernon. He delivered a lecture on the character of that great man more than a hundred times and gave the proceeds to the Ladies' Mount Vernon association. He personally placed over $60,000 in the treasury. It is probable that his oratory won for benevolent purposes at least $100,000.—St. Louis Republic.

A Queen's Will.

Queen Adelaide, the wife of William IV., was a woman of great piety and exceptional humility, which was shown in the directions for her funeral.

"I die in all humility," she wrote, "knowing well we are all alike before the throne of God, and I request, therefore, that my mortal remains be conveyed to the grave without any pomp or ceremony. They are to be moved to St. George's chapel, Windsor, where I request to have a quiet funeral.

"I particularly desire not to be laid out in state, and the funeral to take place by daylight; no procession, the coffin to be carried by sailors to the chapel. I die in peace and wish to be carried to the tomb in peace and free from the vanities and pomp of this world."—London Home Notes.

Youngstown, O., March 28.—It took a squad of police to clear the city building when a crowd of more than 500 foreigners appeared there demanding that they be given work. The protests of the city officials that they had nothing for them to do were unavailing and the men rushed in the corridors, invading the public and private offices with a determination that they would secure work or know the reason why.

Some Consolation.

A detective once said it was all wrong to suppose that the professional housebreaker works with coolness and calculation. On the contrary, he usually works in terror and haste, takes too much swag from one room and too little from another and sometimes overlooks the silver in carrying off the electro.—London Saturday Review.

THE UMPIRE.

Did You Ever Hear the Fans Cheer Him For His Work?

There is one unique phase connected with the life of the umpire which perhaps has never occurred to most lovers of baseball. You have often been to a theater and seen the hero or heroine—yes, even the villain win round after round of applause for some excellent bit of acting.

You have been to a football game and heard some ball gladiator cheered to the echo for making a long run that resulted in a touchdown or for a flying tackle that prevented imminent defeat. When some player is injured they convey their sympathy to him by cheering his name.

You have been to a ball game and heard the fans cheer some crack pitcher because in a pinch he fanned some mighty batter. It's just the natural way of the American to show admiration and appreciation.

Rack your brain, think your hardest, recall every game you have ever attended, then see if you can remember a time when the umpire drew applause for his work. Have you ever heard the fans cheer the name of the umpire after he has worked a fifteen inning game which fairly bristled with close and unusual plays and got away without a kick? If you can recall such an incident, just dot it down in your notebook that you were present at a very, very unusual happening.

Do they cheer the umpire's name when he stops a foul tip with his shin or has a swift shoot bounced off his mask? Yes, they do—not. Any injury to the umpire usually gets a round of derisive laughter from the crowd. Generally, if he has been going bad, some leather lunged individual requests that he be killed or chloroformed. Of course there are many people in the stands who sympathize with the umpire. Their sympathy is usually silence. That isn't much balm to his injury or feelings.

Applause would sound so strange to an umpire's ears that he would probably become so thoroughly frightened he would jump the back fence.—Billy Evans in New York Tribune.

THE TELESCOPE.

Galilei's Rude Instrument the First Used In Astronomy.

The first telescope was pointed toward the sky on Jan. 7, 1610, when Galilei first tried his rude instrument and was rewarded by discovering some of the moons of Jupiter. No great magnifying power was needed for this, as at least one of the moons is large enough to be seen by the naked eye did not the nearness of the brilliant planet prevent this. Lenses had been known for a long time and were at that time in common use by near-sighted persons.

The name of the real discoverer of the telescope seems to be unknown, but the accepted story now is that two young sons of a Middelbury optician named Lippersley some time between 1605 and 1608, while playing with some lenses, happened to hold two of them at a distance from each other and were surprised and delighted to find that the weather vane on a neighboring tower seemed to come near them when looked at through the two lenses. In April, 1609, a little telescope made in Holland was offered for sale in Paris.

The next month Galilei, then a professor in the university at Padua, heard of this instrument and realized at once its importance in the study of astronomy. From the description of the Dutch instrument he had one made at once, and in August he astounded the people of Venice by showing them from the top of the campanile persons entering the doors of the church at Murano. This spyglass was less than two inches in diameter and magnified three times. From this crude instrument of Galilei to the monster telescopes forty inches in diameter of the present day is the development of only three centuries.—Argonaut.

An Interruption.

Among the primary pupils enrolled in a Baltimore school is the son of a prominent business man of that city, says Harper's Magazine. One afternoon at close of school the youngster sought out his father in his office, to whom he said:

"Dad, I'm getting tired of school. I think I'll quit."

"Why," asked the astonished parent, "what's the matter, Tommy? I thought you were fond of going to school."

"So I am, dad," responded the youngster, suppressing a yawn, "but it breaks up the day so."

His Opening Break.

A congressman had returned to his constituency to deliver a carefully prepared address. The day arrived, and, loosening the first button of his Prince Albert, he uttered his carefully prepared prefatory remarks, and to this day he cannot understand the ripple of laughter which swept over his audience when he uttered his opening sentence. "Before I begin to speak to you I desire to say something." He said it.—Kansas City Star.

On the Way.

"I understand that you owe everything to your wife," said the tactless relative.

"No," answered Mr. Meekton, "but I will if I don't stop playing bridge with her and her mother."

Her Slip.

He—Do you think if I were to kiss you your dog would bite me? She—Well—er—he's never done it to any one before.

A CHINESE WEDDING.

As Solemn as a Funeral, With the Women All Weeping.

A Chinese marriage is all ceremony—no talk, no levity and much crying. The solemnity of a funeral prevails. After the exchange of presents the bride is dressed with much care in a red gown, brocade or silk if she can get it; her eyelashes are painted a deep black, and she wears a heavy red veil attached to a scarlet headdress, from which imitation pearls are pendent over the forehead.

A feast is spread upon a table, to which the blushing bride is led by five of her best female friends. They are seated at the table, but no one eats. The utmost silence prevails, when finally the mother leads off in a cry, the maids follow, and the bride echoes the chorus. Then all the bridesmaids leave the table, and the disconsolate mother takes a seat beside the chair of state where the bride sits.

The bridegroom now enters, with four of his best men. The men pick up the throne on which the bride sits and, preceded by the bridegroom, form in procession and walk around the room or into an adjoining parlor, signifying that he is carrying her away to his own home. The guests then throw rice at the happy couple, a custom we have borrowed from the heathen.—St. James' Gazette.

CHEST NOTES.

Varying Sounds That May Be Heard Through the Stethoscope.

The doctor hears some curious noises when he places the stethoscope against your chest. When the lungs are in a healthy condition the medical gentleman hears a pleasant, breezy sound, soft in tone, as you draw in the breath and expel it. Should the instrument convey to his ear a gurgling or bubbling sound he makes a mental note of the fact that you are in what is known as the moist stage of bronchitis. In the dry stage of the same complaint the sound is a whistling, wheezy one.

One of the signs of pneumonia is the crackling note that comes through the stethoscope. It is not unlike the sound that can be heard when your finger and thumb have touched a sticky substance and you first place them together and then part them, holding them close to your ear.

Doctors occasionally hear a dripping sound, and that indicates that air and water have got into some part of the chest where they have no right to be. Blow across a bottle, and you will produce a sound which is actually to be heard in your chest. It is caused in the same way—that is, by air passing over a cavity.

Filipino Buglers.

"Speaking of buglers," says Boatswain Jurascheka in his article, "Captured by Filipinos," in Wide World Magazine, "it astonished me to find that the insurgents had so many buglers and that many of them were of the best. They knew all our army calls, although they did not know their significance. I was often asked the meaning of various calls and was careful to give them any but the proper one. One insurgent colonel asked me what call was sounded as the retreat from the charge. I told him that we had no such call, but that the charge once sounded, American soldiers and sailors went through or never came back. He was very much interested, and with good reason, as he had just escaped from the attack of our men at Iloilo and could well believe it. He said that charging was unfair—that both sides should simply snipe at each other."

So He Would.

A little country girl visited city relatives who dwelt in a flat. Her visit lasted two weeks, and all of the time they were warning her not to make so much noise, not to run across the street and not to waken the people in the adjoining flats. In fact, they were constantly curtailing her freedom. When she got home she told her papa she never wanted to go to the city again, and he said:

"You must have had a hard time of it. You do look hollow eyed."

"Well, papa," she said, "if you had folks hollerin' at you all the time you'd look holler eyed too."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Not Ambiguous at All.

In one of England's elections a candidate for parliament, the late Lord Bath, called attention to himself by means of a donkey, over whose back two panniers were slung bearing a ribbon band on which was printed "Vote For Papa." It must be added, however, that in each pannier stood one of Lord Bath's daughters.

Sightseeing.

On a visit to his grandmother Harry examined her handsome furniture with interest and then asked, "Grandma, where is the miserable table that papa says you always keep?"—Success Magazine.

An Extremist.

A London bookseller recently received this order from a customer: "Please forward me a copy of Tennyson's poems. Do not send one bound in calf, however, because I am a vegetarian."

Good Reason.

"Here's the doctor again, miss. Don't you think he comes more often than he needs to?"

"It all depends. He may be very poor, Marie."—Frou-Frou.

Think not that thy word and thine alone must be right.—Sophocles.

In Westminster Abbey.

Fox's tomb is perhaps the most ridiculous in the abbey, but others run it hard—the naked figure of General Wolfe supported by one of his staff in full regimentals and receiving a crown from Victory; William Wilberforce apparently listening to Sheridan telling a comic tale and contorting his features in the endeavor not to laugh; the Sir Cloudesley Shovel, in periwig and Roman toga, which excited the mirth even of contemporaries, and all the monuments erected by the East India company, with palm trees and other tropical exuberances, to the memory of great soldiers, like Sir Eyre Coote. From the point of view of good taste a dictator would be justified in dismissing these and many more to the stonemason's yard.—Cornhill Magazine.

How Pausanius Died.

Pausanius, the Greek general, died by self administered poison. When hotly pursued by those sent to apprehend him on a charge of treason and sacrilege he took refuge in the sanctuary of a temple. Unable to remove him by force and also unwilling to violate the sanctuary, the officers walled up the entrance and began to unroof the building. When he could be seen they noticed that he was chewing something which proved to be a quill filled with poison. By the time the work had sufficiently advanced to admit of their entrance he was in a dying condition.

The Origin of the "Marseillaise."

In the reign of terror under Freron and Barras, when hundreds of victims were carved by the guillotine and the people rose against the aristocracy, was born the hymn of France composed by Rouget de l'Isle. He was an officer of engineers and at a banquet was asked to compose a war song. He wrote it in his room that night before going to bed, and the next morning his hostess, the wife of the mayor of Strassburg, tried it on a piano, and in the afternoon the orchestra of the theater played it in the square of Strassburg, where it created much excitement and gathered many volunteers. Rouget called it a song for the Army of the Rhine, but subsequently it was sung by a regiment of volunteers, mostly assassins, who marched out of Marseilles to Paris where it was appropriated by the capital and called the "Hymne des Marseillais." But Joseph Rouget, the author, died in poverty.—Deshler Welch in Harper's Magazine.

A Modest Request.

An impeccably dressed gentleman the other day when walking along Piccadilly felt a movement in his pocket and, clapping his hand thereto, seized the wrist of the thief. He drew forth the erring member, and, looking at it with supreme disgust, he released it, saying, with a grimace of disgust, "For heaven's sake, my good man, go and wash your hands before you put them in a gentleman's pocket again!"—London Tatler.

Made Him Feel Old.

"What's the matter?"

"Oh, nothing much."

"But you look as if you had something serious on your mind."

"Well, if you insist on knowing, a boy who was named after me has just become engaged to be married. How time flies!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Dollar Mark.

"Have you seen the Washington monument?"

"Yes," replied the New Yorker. "It's a pretty tall building, but what's the good of it without any offices for rent?"—Washington Star.

NOT ANNOYED.

The Directors Were Rather Pleased at the Barrister's Refusal.

Mr. Reader Harris, K. C., was once offered a brief marked 50 guineas on behalf of a railway company that wished to obtain a refreshment license for a particular railway station. He returned the brief on conscientious grounds, but later on it was sent back to him with a fee of 100 guineas marked on it. This time he returned it with a note in which he explained that his refusal was due to a matter of principle. Subsequently he met one of the directors of the company and expressed a hope that he and his colleagues were not annoyed at his conduct.

"Not at all," said the director. "I'll tell you all about it. So-and-so, the big brewer, was sitting on the board for the first time at the meeting at which the solicitor reported that your brief marked 50 guineas had been returned. 'Who's this psalm singing humbug?' he asked. 'Mark the brief 100 guineas and I'll bet you anything you like he'll take it.' 'Oh, you will, will you?' asked the chairman. You see, we all knew you, Harris. We took the brewer on at 5 to 1 in five pound notes. He booked the bets with every one of us, and he has paid up."—London Scraps.

Consistent Theory.

"Don't you believe the husband is the head of the house and should have the final say?"

"Certainly I do."

"Then why don't you come out in the open and say so?"

"Because my wife won't let me."—Exchange.

Well Trained.

Mrs. Boggs—Mr. Meekman is a splendid example of what a man ought to be. Mr. Boggs—Not at all. He's a splendid example of what a wife, two sisters, a grownup daughter and a mother-in-law think a man ought to be.

Reckless.

"Aw, come on!" the little boy was heard to remark. "Be a sport. I'll bet yer any amount o' money up to 5 cents."—Harper's.

Eccentric Count Bertrand.

Count Bertrand who lived in Paris was a very eccentric man, and to one of his eccentricities he ascribed his long life. Once a year he would betake himself to bed and stay there for three months. On these occasions he would see no one but his servant, who brought him his meals and even him he forbade to speak. Just before the Germans began the siege of Paris the count went to bed, and the servant true to his injunctions, said nothing of the events going on around him. One day the bread proved so bad the count demanded an explanation, whereby, of course, he learned that Paris was encompassed by the enemy. Springing out of bed, the count paced the floor, repeating, "What should a Bertrand do under such circumstances?" Suddenly he stopped, exclaiming, "We should go to bed!" and to bed he went and stayed there until the siege was over.

Meat Versus Song.

The great tenor's lunch consisted of a cheese omelet, asparagus, fruit and an ice.

"No meat?" said the reporter.

"As little meat as possible," the tenor replied. "Meat kills song. The nightingale, the thrush and lark are grain eaters, and their song is sweet. The carnivorous birds, the crow, etc., only croak. And in countries that go in for excessive meat eating—England, for instance—there are few good voices, while in the more vegetarian countries, such as Italy, fine singers abound. Song birds are vegetarian," he concluded, "Carnivorous birds croak."—New York Press.

New and Entertaining.

Have you ever seen any one who does not enjoy something new? Well, here is an idea for a good sized family given me by a friend who lives in the country. It seems very interesting to me.

They give the mother one new idea every day, taking turns, from the father down to the youngest child. It does not matter whether the idea be original or obtained from some one else, or from paper, magazine or book—a new joke, impression, suggestion, fashion, anything but criticism which is not permissible.

The idea is reserved and given out when all are gathered at the "festive board" and then discussed. Sometimes they are good, sometimes ridiculous, and cause much merriment.

True Happiness.

About the happiest man in the world should be he that, having a fad, is able to make a living at it.—Chicago Record-Herald.

UNION PICNIC IS PROPOSED

Superintendent James of the Methodist Sunday School Favors Idea.

A union Sunday school picnic of all the Sunday schools in Charleroi is proposed for next year, and already Superintendent W. S. James of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school and others are beginning to formulate planes for the carrying out of the project. Mr. James has talked to several of the idea and sentiment is said to be favorable. The Methodist picnic at Eldora Park yesterday, which was one of the most successful ever held by that Sunday school was suggestive of the idea. Either Eldora or some other park would be favored for a union picnic.

Roused His Suspicions.

A naval officer was speaking of the extortions of innkeepers in out of the way parts of the globe.

"In Montenegro once," he said, "I asked for my bill after having slept overnight at a certain inn, and as soon as the document was handed to me I took out my purse to settle it. I did not bother to verify the various items. What would have been the use?

"But my readiness to pay amazed the landlord. He thought a moment, and then he said uneasily:

"'Will you let me have another look at that bill, sir? I think I have omitted something.'"

Several constables from surrounding towns have dropped into Brownsville lately on the lookout for some characters more or less known to the police. All of them felt confident that the men they sought were located there and had come there to apprehend them. No instances have yet been reported to the police of any cases of robbery or holdup.

Remarkable Machine Will Pick Stones From Dirt on Wagon

Howard W. Thomas of Charleroi, has been granted letters on a patent for a stone gathering and loading machine. The machine it is claimed will be a valuable one to farmers, street graders and road builders. With this machine a plowed field can be cleaned of stone, and stone can be taken from dirt laden wagons, without the wagons being stopped. The machine will also dig and load potatoes and turnips.

CHARLEROI HIGH SCHOOL WILL GET APPROPRIATION

School Board Complies With Law in all Respects.

SOME INCREASE EXPECTED

More Pupils Now Than When Last Year's Appropriation Was Made.

The Charleroi High School will not suffer from lack of a state appropriation, as some high schools in the county may if a report is not forthcoming immediately. The report of the Charleroi high school as well as the report of the common school has been filed with the state superintendent, and the usual appropriation will be forthcoming.

Some of the high schools of the county have failed to send in their annual report to County Superintendent L. R. Crumrine, and unless these are in his hands and have been forwarded to state Superintendent Nathan C. Schaffer by the first of September the chances are that these schools will be knocked out of their appropriation.

The Charleroi schools are not under the jurisdiction of Superintendent Crumrine, but a report is made directly to the state. A complete report is necessary for the high-school and the common school and these were sent in some time ago properly filled out, and signed by President J. I. Hill and secretary Ira L. Nickeson of the school board, and Supt James H. Pentz of the schools. The high school report has to certify as to the number of pupils in the high school, the length of the term, the length of the course and a number of other incidentals Charleroi has only a three year course and the appropriation is not as large as it would be for four year course, although the difference would be slight.

Charleroi's high school appropriation last year was $345, but some increase is anticipated this year, on account of the increase in the number of pupils. The common school appropriation was $7,297.79. It is stated that the idea of a four year high school course is an much favored at the present time, and furthermore it is said, many of the present pupils would drop out if the length of the course was increased.

Woman Who Lost One Thought it Was Being Worn by Another.

A gold band ring was the source of considerable trouble the past week which ended last night in a lawsuit before a Roscoe justice of the peace It is said that Mrs. Mary Wilson lost a ring. One day she got hold of a ring of Mrs. Louis Glasser's, it is understood, and claimed it as her property. Mrs. Glasser sued Mrs. Wilson and the outcome was the hearing last night, in which Mrs Wilson lost, and had to return the ring and pay the costs of prosecution.

NEW WRINKLE FOR THE CHARLEROI AUDITORS

Have Been in Habit of Filing School Audit, But Never Before Audit of Borough Finances.

For the first time in history the auditors for the borough of Charleroi this year filed a report of the audit of the borough finances in the Clerk of Courts office at Washington. The filing of the audit was made compulsory through a new law enacted by the last legislature.

It has been the custom of the auditors to file an audit of the school finances after the work of auditing the books has been completed but to file a copy of the borough audit is entirely a new wrinkle for the borough auditors The auditors this year were H F. Parsons, J. G Albright and Harry Horner

Many auditors in the county have not taken cognizance of the change in the law, and as a result have not filed the necessary paper with the Clerk of Courts.

CHILDREN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Fruit Wagon Overturns and Youngsters are Thrown Underneath.

Two children of Charles Stoffel, of Fallowfield township, formerly of Charleroi had a narrow escape from serious injury this morning, when a wagon in which they were riding overturned at the corner of Second street and Washington avenue. Mr. Stoffel had brought some garden produce in and was disposing of it from do or to door. He told the children to drive the horse up the Second street hill and they started it.

After getting part way up the animal commenced to back and the wagon overturned in a drain. The children fell underneath, and the produce was thrown from the wagon The children were practically unhurt, and most of the fruit and vegetables was recovered.

Last week the barn of Mr. Stoffel in Fallowfield township was burned, after having been struck by lightning, and considerable hay destroyed.

Many Charleroi people are expected to attend on both Sundays and record breaking crowd is anticipated. Many are already camping at the camp grounds.

MONESSEN TROUBLED BY BUM STREET SIGNS

Burgess Daniel Reamer of Monessen has been importuned by a number of citizens of that borough to declare the unsightly street sign a nuisance and to issue a order to have them taken down.

As a result merchants and others who have signs protruding across the streets of the town will soon be served with notices to remove them within a certain time or the city will do the work at their expense.

Another source of annoyance about which Monessen people are complaining—is the low awning which it is argued cause pedestrians no end of inconvenience.

Many Expected to Attend Affair in Allegheny County Next Week.

The third annual reunion of the Goehring family, one of the largest and most distinguished families in Western Pennsylvania, and which included in its ranks the late District Attorney H. L. Goehring. All who are related through ties of blood or marriage have been invited L. H. Goehring of Charleroi is one of the family and will probably attend the reunion.

GOT 51 CENTS; NOT FIFTY TWO AS REPORTED

The following communication has been received by the Mail relative to the claim of 52 cents on a paving assessment at North Charleroi.

JUSTICE

To the Hon Members who compose that august body—the council of North Charleroi.

Greeting.

We presume and now know for a certainty—that presumption was not an erroneous one—that some of the honorable members were poor, but not so poor as to make a squeal of fifty-two cents (52) and also to make up that deficit in pennies, nickels and dimes. Fifty two cents! We shudder to think what it might have been if the deficit had been 25 cents. No doubt we would have had to go on their bond for the other penny. Gladly too, since we justly got our own.

Fifty two cents for a fraction of an inch of paving. For only a fraction! Think what a whole inch would cost I'm very much afraid the whole councilmanic body would have gone into bankruptcy on a whole inch.

The woman who received "fiftyone cents."

West Virginia Development

Railroad lines through West Virginia either under actual construction or already authorized, are said by railroad men to forcast the fact that before long that state will rank with Pennsylvania, if not ahead of it, as a coal producing territory. Conservative estimates of the coal output of West Virginia for 1910 by operators of that state place the figures at 40,000,000 tons, which will break all previous mining records. The operators state that the West Virginia coal mines are increasing output records at a rapid rate and say the figures in 1912 will be enormous. While West Virginia is now ranking among the [illegible] in the coal output, she has also grown in the production of coke

Rev. C. S. Joshua, pastor of the First Baptist church, has returned home from a three week's visit in the eastern part of the state, and will occupy his pulpit Sunday. Mrs. Joshua will remain in the east for a time.

BIG MONESSEN PLANT WILL NOT CLOSE INDEFINITELY

Work on New Road Well Under Way

Spike Put in Persistent Rumor by Supt. Nash.

Part of Grading on Monongahela-Donora Highway Finished.

COMPANY HAS BIG KICK

Assessment Was Increased Too Much for Comfort, According to Officials.

The grading for the improved road between Monongahela and Donora has been completed to the site of the old Baird station, formerly known as Harlem Brick is also on the ground, ready for placing, just as soon as the foundation is made ready.

The improvement also calls for some fine concrete culverts over the various runs, and which are being rapidly placed The steam shovel is at work the other side of the site of the old "Buzzard" ripple.

It has been rumored during the past few days that the Pittsburg Steel plant at Monessen is due to close down for good, but a plug was effectively put in the rumor yesterday by Superintendent George Nash, who gave out the following statement.

"The mill will shut down in all departments on Saturday evening, August 13, 1910, to resume work again on Monday morning, August 29, 1910

It is usual for the steel plant to close down two weeks during the year for repairs an incident which may cause no trouble unless an alleged mistake rectified in connection with the steel company, and which may have given some foundation to the rumor is that of a big increase in the triennial assessment of the valuation of the plant. The company has declared that it will not pay taxes on its property regularly until it has fought the matter out in court and has exposed many irregularities. Gross injustice to the company is charged, which it is claimed is verified by the following figures taken from the company's statement to the Monessen News.

The assessed valuation of the entire town the last triennial assessment was $4,826,937 of which the Pittsburg Steel company was $500,000. The total assessed valuation this time is $5,554,850 of which $1,500,000 is assessed to the Pittsburg Steel. This shows an increase of only $727,913 in the total assessed valuation of the entire town this time over the last triennial assessment, while the Pittsburg Steel company alone has been loaded up with $1,000,000, more than before, which means all other mills in town and private property have been reduced in valuation $272,087.

It is claimed the other mills in the town were not treated as the steel company was in the assessment.

PLEAS ARE ENTERED BY OFFENDERS

Two Sentenced at Washington for Liquor Selling.

HEAVY FINES IMPOSED

Peter Roskisch of Monongahela, charged with selling liquor without license and on Sunday, by George Machaleksy, admitted his guilt yesterday to the court and was sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $550 and undergo an imprisonment in the work house for three months and 20 days.

Mike Sphar, on similar charges, preferred by M. R. Conley of McDonald, was given the same sentence

John Albert entered a plea of guilty to charges preferred by Augustine Wasar of carrying concealed deadly weapons, wantonly pointing fire arms and assault. He was given a 30-day jail sentence with a fine of $10 and costs.

Walter Martin pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery made by Matilda Martin. He was sentenced to pay the costs or give security to pay the same within 30 days.

METHODISTS HOLD PICNIC AT PARK

Good Old Fashioned Time Enjoyed by Local Sunday School.

The Sunday School of the Methodist Episcopal church held their annual outing and picnic at Eldora Park yesterday and a large number of the members of the Sunday school and their friends attended. The day was a perfect picnic day and the crowd attending enjoyed themselves to the utmost. Dinners were taken and a picnic lunchwas a feature. During the afternoon some races were run and a good time enjoyed generally. It was late evening before all the people left the park.

POLICE RULES STRINGENT FOR THE CROSSINGS

The police rules of the Pennsylvania railroad are becoming more stringent. Instructions have been issued to patrolmen that in the future crossing the tracks at any point except a public crossing will be considered a violation of the law and that it will be their duty to prohibit all such unnecessary traffic. In sections where campers have taken advantage of spots along river divisions to erect camp on the opposite side of the track from the river, this new rule will effect such parties rather seriously. They have been warned against crossing the tracks. The railroad men claim that such action is necessary for the maintenance of high speed trains and the reduction in accidents.

Mr and Mrs J Bryant Tussing and children and Mrs. C Finch have gone to Chautauqua, where they will spend some time.

Gas Rates are Soaring

The Canonsburg Notes puts the blame for an increase in natural gas rates on Town Councils of the borough in Western Pennsylvania. It says:

"Throughout Western Pennsylvania the rates for natural gas are almost everywhere being advanced. It is understood that our own town is not to be slighted in this particular. We, it is said, will have to take our dose of medicine along with the rest. Now in connection with the advance of gas rates there is a curious thing. Go to the different towns and ask the clerks of the councils to permit you to examine the ordinances governing the furnishing of natural gas and what do you find? Why, in nine cases out of ten, long complicated ordinances, with many "shalls," and "shall nots," many of them concerning matter of very little importance, but in the one great vital point of fixing a maximum price not one word will you find. It is so in our town. Why is this so? Let those answer who are framed the law and passed it? It is too much for us.

"It is not so with regard to water. In the ordinance granting a franchise to the water company there is a maximum rate fixed, and it cannot be exceeded. But with regard to gas rates, not a word. Again we ask why? Possibly because the gas company had many good friends in council in the days when the ordinance was adopted. At any rate the council and the burgess left the people at the mercy of the managers of a great corporation which is all the time ready to add on a little more and the reason they can and do give is that 'they need the money.' It is a nice state of affairs."

Not Significant

Some of the insurgents appear anxious to make trouble for those who don't agree with their politics and they jump at conclusions. They give out word that Mr. Roosevelt "sides with the insurgents" because he has agreed to speak from the same platform with Mr. Garfield and Mr. Pinchot. Since the subject the gentlemen are going to discuss is conservation of the country's natural resources thoughtful people will fail to see any political significance in their appearance on the same platform.—Uniontown News Standard.

Mens Clothes

There is an American tariff saying that a cheap coat makes a cheap man. But there is the word of an expert at the Garden sartorial show that not even $500 waist coats, with buttons of precious stones, can make well dressed men, according to the New York World. Indeed, a fellow may spend $5,000 to $6,000 a year on his apparel and still not pass the test of the critics. No more than it is all of life to live or all of death to die is it all good dressing to squander money on the tailor.

Clothes, we gather, must fit the wearer. But they must also fit the occasion. Moreover, to compete the effect they must be carried well.

As to occasional garments, they form an issue more and more complicated occasions and particularly diversions, multiply. Men go to business. They attend afternoon functions. They drive. They dine. They go to the opera. They motor. They play golf or tennis or baseball. They row, ride or hunt. They lounge. They sit at the club. They are beginning to fly. Each pursuit and every kind of weather has its own outfit. One lives up to the rigor of the wardrobe or encounters the condescension of the leader of fashion.

Our little life if we live by the fashions, is filled and rounded with a change of clothes.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Many a pleasure resort is touted as a restful place, but a fellow generally looks worn out when he gets back from a visit there.

The former boss in this county is alleged to be sore. That is more sore than usual. He alleges it is because the Republican party is going to carry on an active campaign, but evidences are that it might be because he was not named for Congress.

Oh, my! Those nasty officers have arrested people from a nice refined gambling place at Narragansett Pier. Isn't it just too horrid for anything.

It is asserted that modern science has come within 15,000,000 years of accurately fixing the age of the earth as a solid body, but the average person could guess a little closer than that.

Alumni Planning For an Outing

The Charleroi High School Alumni association is planning to hold an outing and picnic on the afternoon and the evening of Thursday, August 18 at Eldora Park. Filled baskets will be taken along for a picnic supper and the evening will be spent in dancing and with other amusements.

Hattie Marker, aged 18 of Monongahela, was yesterday turned over to the officers of the department of charities by Magistrate Winters, at the South Side, Pittsburg, station. The girl was arrested at the foot of South Twenty-first street by Policeman H. S. Gardener, where she was talking to Frank Muttzo and John Gelzheiser. The men were also arrested.

Yesterday the girl was released from the workhouse, where she served a short term. The men were discharged.

Magistrate Winters is of the opinion the girl is slightly demented and turned her over to the city charity officers, who will have her examined.

Mrs. Samuel Gaskill and children of North Charleroi left today for New Philadelphia, Ohio to attend a church reunion.

Reptiles That Walk Erect.

Lizards of several sorts can walk and run easily on their hind legs. The Australian water lizard, which is three or four feet in length, keeps quite erect when traversing long distances on land. It is found in the neighborhood of river banks and passes much of its time in shallow water.

The frilled lizard of Queensland also travels on its hind legs on level ground, keeping the frill folded when running. When attacked it expands this fold of skin, which stands out like a ruff at right angles round the neck, giving it a most formidable aspect, so that dogs that attack and kill larger lizards will often retreat before a frilled lizard at bay.

There is also a tree lizard in Australia that moves in a similar way. All these species walk on all fours when merely moving about or going short distances.

Party's Fate on One Vote.

Instances are common enough in elections when a single vote turns the scale, but for that vote to decide not only the fate of a candidate, but of a party as well, is rare. Yet a majority of one in parliament, which may logically depend on a majority of one in the country, has worked some of the most momentous results possible. The classical example is the act of union of 1799, certainly among the largest, most important and most remarkable changes ever accomplished by a legislative body. One hundred and six voted for it and 105 against. Then a majority of one carried the great reform bill in 1832.

Majorities only a little bigger have again and again been responsible for farreaching consequences. A majority of five threw out the Melbourne government in 1839. By the same figure Lord John Russell's government was defeated in 1866. Gladstone went out of office in 1873 because he lacked three votes, and the public education act, one of the most important ever passed, was placed on the statute book by a majority of two.—London Chronicle.

The Light of the Stars.

Various endeavors have been made to estimate the light of the stars. In the northern hemisphere Argelander has registered 324,000 stars down to the nine and a half magnitude, and with the aid of the best photometric data Agnes M. Clerk's "System of the Stars" gives the sum of the light of these northern stars as equivalent to 1-440 of full moonlight, while the total light of all stars similarly enumerated in both hemispheres, to the number of about 900,000, is roughly placed at 1-180 of the lunar brightness. The scattered light of still fainter celestial bodies is difficult to compute. By a photographic method Sir William Abbey rated the total starlight of both hemispheres at 1-100 of full moonlight, and Professor Newcomb from visual observations of all stars at just 728 times that of Capella, or 1-89 of the light of the full moon.

It is not certain, however, that the sky would be totally dark if all stars were blotted out. Certain processes make the upper atmosphere strongly luminous at times, and we cannot be sure that this light would be totally absent.—Harper's Weekly.

A Dutch Fishing Fleet.

If one desires to get a real glimpse of picturesque Holland, a glimpse which shall long be a happy memory, let him journey to the old fishing village of Scheveningen, not far from The Hague. Its fishing fleet is an imposing one and is best seen at night, when the boats are drawn up on the beach. Each has a number, and these are painted on the sides in such large figures that they can be read at a considerable distance. At night when the fishermen begin to come to land the women of the village walk down to the beach with their knitting in their hands to meet them. They wear their wooden shoes, some of which are made to look especially clean by an application of whiting, and they make a merry clatter as they go. Industry is characteristic of the women of Holland in all walks of life. They must always be at work of some kind, and it would seem as if more knitting needles must be used in Holland than in any other country in the world.—E. J. Farrington in Interior.

The Old Time English School.

Until comparatively recent times public school boys in England had many hardships to endure. As late as 1834 a writer who spoke from experience said that "the inmates of a workhouse or a jail were better fed and lodged than the scholars of Eton." Boys whose parents could not pay for a private room underwent privations that might have broken down a cabin boy and would be thought inhuman if inflicted on a galley slave.

"They rose at 5, winter and summer, and breakfasted four hours later, the interval being devoted to study, after they had swept their rooms and made their beds. The only washing accommodation was a pump. The diet consisted of an endless round of mutton, potatoes and beer, none of them too plentiful or too good.

"To be starved," says this writer, "frozen and dogged—such was the daily life of the scions of England's noblest families."

Edward Everett.

Edward Everett was one of the most purely literary of all American orators. Among the more eminent scholars and statesmen of our land no one has ever been more deservedly honored for intellectual power, purity of character, public and private, and for clearness and perception of judgment than Everett. To the efforts of Edward Everett more than to any other one person is to be credited the raising of funds sufficient to purchase the home of Washington at Mount Vernon. He delivered a lecture on the character of that great man more than a hundred times and gave the proceeds to the Ladies' Mount Vernon association. He personally placed over $60,000 in the treasury. It is probable that his oratory won for benevolent purposes at least $100,000.—St. Louis Republic.

A Queen's Will.

Queen Adelaide, the wife of William IV., was a woman of great piety and exceptional humility, which was shown in the directions for her funeral.

"I die in all humility," she wrote, "knowing well we are all alike before the throne of God, and I request, therefore, that my mortal remains be conveyed to the grave without any pomp or ceremony. They are to be moved to St. George's chapel, Windsor, where I request to have a quiet funeral.

"I particularly desire not to be laid out in state, and the funeral to take place by daylight; no procession, the coffin to be carried by sailors to the chapel. I die in peace and wish to be carried to the tomb in peace and free from the vanities and pomp of this world."—London Home Notes.

Youngstown, O., March 28.—It took a squad of police to clear the city building when a crowd of more than 500 foreigners appeared there demanding that they be given work. The protests of the city officials that they had nothing for them to do were unavailing and the men rushed in the corridors, invading the public and private offices with a determination that they would secure work or know the reason why.

Some Consolation.

A detective once said it was all wrong to suppose that the professional housebreaker works with coolness and calculation. On the contrary, he usually works in terror and haste, takes too much swag from one room and too little from another and sometimes overlooks the silver in carrying off the electro.—London Saturday Review.

THE UMPIRE.

Did You Ever Hear the Fans Cheer Him For His Work?

There is one unique phase connected with the life of the umpire which perhaps has never occurred to most lovers of baseball. You have often been to a theater and seen the hero or heroine—yes, even the villain—win round after round of applause for some excellent bit of acting.

You have been to a football game and heard some ball gladiator cheered to the echo for making a long run that resulted in a touchdown or for a flying tackle that prevented imminent defeat. When some player is injured they convey their sympathy to him by cheering his name.

You have been to a ball game and heard the fans cheer some crack pitcher because in a pinch he fanned some mighty batter. It's just the natural way of the American to show admiration and appreciation.

Rack your brain, think your hardest, recall every game you have ever attended, then see if you can remember a time when the umpire drew applause for his work. Have you ever heard the fans cheer the name of the umpire after he has [illegible] a fast running game which fairly bristled with close and unusual plays and got away without a kick? If you can recall such an incident, just dot it down in your notebook that you were present at a very, very unusual happening.

Do they cheer the umpire's name when he stops a foul tip with his shin or has a swift shoot bounced off his mask? Yes, they do—not. Any injury to the umpire usually gets a round of derisive laughter from the crowd. Generally, if he has been going bad, some leather lunged individual requests that he be killed or chloroformed. Of course there are many people in the stands who sympathize with the umpire. Their sympathy is usually silence. That isn't much balm to his injury or feelings.

Applause would sound so strange to an umpire's ears that he would probably become so thoroughly frightened he would jump the back fence.—Billy Evans in New York Tribune.

THE TELESCOPE.

Galilei's Rude Instrument the First Used in Astronomy.

The first telescope was pointed toward the sky on Jan. 7, 1610, when Galilei first tried his rude instrument and was rewarded by discovering some of the moons of Jupiter. No great magnifying power was needed for this, as at least one of the moons is large enough to be seen by the naked eye did not the nearness of the brilliant planet prevent this. Lenses had been known for a long time and were at that time in common use by near-sighted persons.

The name of the real discoverer of the telescope seems to be unknown, but the accepted story now is that two young sons of a Middelburg optician named Lippersley some time between 1603 and 1608, while playing with some lenses, happened to hold two of them at a distance from each other and were surprised and delighted to find that the weather vane on a neighboring tower seemed to come near them when looked at through the two lenses. In April, 1609, a little telescope made in Holland was offered for sale in Paris.

The next month Galilei, then a professor in the university at Padua, heard of this instrument and realized at once its importance to the study of astronomy. From the description of the Dutch instrument he had one made at once, and in August he astounded the people of Venice by showing them from the top of the campanile persons entering the doors of the church at Murano. This spyglass was less than two inches in diameter and magnified three times. From this crude instrument of Galilei to the monster telescopes forty inches in diameter of the present day is the development of only three centuries.—Argonaut.

An Interruption.

Among the primary pupils enrolled in a Baltimore school is the son of a prominent business man of that city, says Harper's Magazine. One afternoon, at close of school the youngster sought out his father in his office, to whom he said:

"Dad, I'm getting tired of school. I think I'll quit."

"Why," asked the astonished parent, "what's the matter, Tommy? I thought you were fond of going to school."

"So I am, dad," responded the youngster, suppressing a yawn, "but it breaks up the day so."

His Opening Break.

A congressman had returned to his constituency to deliver a carefully prepared address. The day arrived, and, loosening the first button of his Prince Albert, he uttered his carefully prepared prefatory remarks, and to this day he cannot understand the ripple of laughter which swept over his audience when he uttered his opening sentence. "Before I begin to speak to you I desire to say something." He said it.—Kansas City Star.

On the Way.

"I understand that you owe everything to your wife," said the tactless relative.

"No," answered Mr. Meekton, "but I will if I don't stop playing bridge with her and her mother."

Her Slip.

He—Do you think if I were to kiss you your dog would bite me? She—Well—er—he's never done it to any one before.

A CHINESE WEDDING.

As Solemn as a Funeral, With the Women All Weeping.

A Chinese marriage is all ceremony—no talk, no levity and much crying. The solemnity of a funeral prevails. After the exchange of presents the bride is dressed with much care in a red gown, brocade or silk if she can get it; her eyelashes are painted a deep black, and she wears a heavy red veil attached to a scarlet headdress, from which imitation pearls are pendent over the forehead.

A feast is spread upon a table, to which the blushing bride is led by five of her best female friends. They are seated at the table, but no one eats. The utmost silence prevails, when first by the mother leads off in a cry, the maids follow, and the bride echoes in the chorus. Then all the bridesmaids leave the table, and the disconsolate mother takes a seat beside the chair of state where the bride sits.

The bridegroom now enters, with four of his best men. The men pick up the throne on which the bride sits and, preceded by the bridegroom, form in procession and walk around the room or into an adjoining parlor, sig[illegible] her away to his own home. The guests then throw rice at the happy couple, a custom we have borrowed from the heathen.—St. James' Gazette.

CHEST NOTES.

Varying Sounds That May Be Heard Through the Stethoscope.

The doctor hears some curious noises when he places the stethoscope against your chest. When the lungs are in a healthy condition the medical gentleman hears a pleasant, breezy sound, soft in tone, as you draw in the breath and expel it. Should the instrument convey to his ear a gurgling or bubbling sound he makes a mental note of the fact that you are in what is known as the moist stage of bronchitis. In the dry stage of the same complaint the sound is a whistling, wheezy one.

One of the signs of pneumonia is the crackling note that comes through the stethoscope. It is not unlike the sound that can be heard when your finger and thumb have touched a sticky substance and you first place them together and then part them, holding them close to your ear.

Doctors occasionally hear a dripping sound, and that indicates that air and water have got into some part of the chest where they have no right to be. Blow across a bottle, and you will produce a sound which is actually to be heard in your chest. It is caused in the same way—that is, by air passing over a cavity.

Filipino Buglers.

"Speaking of buglers," says Boatswain Juraschka in his article, "Captured by Filipinos," in Wide World Magazine, "it astonished me to find that the insurgents had so many buglers and that many of them were of the best. They knew all our army calls, although they did not know their significance. I was often asked the meaning of various calls and was careful to give them any but the proper one. One insurgent colonel asked me what call was sounded as the retreat from the charge. I told him that we had no such call, but that the charge once sounded, American soldiers and sailors went through or never came back. He was very much interested, and with good reason, as he had just escaped from the attack of our men at Iloilo and could well believe it. He said that charging was unfair—that both sides should simply snipe at each other."

So He Would.

A little country girl visited city relatives who dwelt in a flat. Her visit lasted two weeks, and all of the time they were warning her not to make so much noise, not to run across the street and not to waken the people in the adjoining flats. In fact, they were constantly curtailing her freedom. When she got home she told her papa she never wanted to go to the city again, and he said:

"You must have had a hard time of it. You do look hollow eyed."

"Well, papa," she said, "if you had folks hollerin' at you all the time you'd look holler eyed too."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Not Ambiguous at All.

In one of England's elections a candidate for parliament, the late Lord Bath, called attention to himself by means of a donkey, over whose back two panniers were slung bearing a ribbon band on which was printed "Vote For Papa." It must be added, however, that in each pannier stood one of Lord Bath's daughters.

Sightseeing.

On a visit to his grandmother Harry examined her handsome furniture with interest and then asked, "Grandma, where is the miserable table that papa says you always keep?"—Success Magazine.

An Extremist.

A London bookseller recently received this order from a customer: "Please forward me a copy of Tennyson's poems. Do not send one bound in calf, however, because I am a vegetarian."

Good Reason.

"Here's the doctor again, miss. Don't you think he comes more often than he needs to?"

"It all depends. He may be very poor, Marie."—Frou-Frou.

Think not that thy word and thine alone must be right.—Sophocles.

Eccentric Count Bertrand

Count Bertrand who lived in Paris, was a very eccentric man and to one of his eccentricities he confined his long life. Once every year he would take himself to bed and stay there for three months. On these occasions he would see no one, his servant who brought him his meals and even him he told to report first before the German siege in the year of Paris the count was found and the servant true to his instructions said nothing of the events going on around him. One day the news proved so bad the count demanded an explanation whereby of course he learned that Paris was encompassed by the enemy. Springing out of bed, the count paced the floor repeating "What should a Bertrand do under such circumstances? Suddenly he stopped exclaiming "We should go to bed" and to bed he went and stayed there until the siege was over.

Meat Versus Song.

The great tenor's lunch consisted of a cheese omelet asparagus fruit and an ice.

"No meat?" said the reporter.

"As little meat as possible," the tenor replied. "Meat kills song. The nightingale, the thrush and lark are grain eaters, and their song is sweet. The carnivorous birds, the crow etc only croak. And in countries that go in for excessive meat eating—England for instance—there are few good voices, while in the more vegetarian countries such as Italy fine singers abound. Song birds are vegetarian," he concluded. "Carnivorous birds croak."—New York Press.

New and Entertaining.

Have you ever seen any one who does not enjoy something new? Well here is an idea for a good sized family given me by a friend who lives in the country. It seems very interesting to me.

They give the mother one new idea every day, taking turns, from the father down to the youngest child. It does not matter whether the idea be original or obtained from some one else, or from a paper, magazine or book—a new joke, impression, suggestion, fashion, anything but criticism which is not permissible.

The idea is reserved and given out when all are gathered at the "festive board" and then discussed. Some [illegible] and cause much merriment.

In Westminster Abbey.

Fox's tomb is perhaps the most ridiculous in the abbey, but others run it hard—the naked figure of General Wolfe supported by one of his staff in full regimentals and receiving a crown from Victory, William Wilberforce apparently listening to Sheridan telling a comic tale and contorting his features in the endeavor not to laugh, Sir Cloudesley Shovel, in periwig and Roman toga which excited the mirth even of contemporaries, and all the monuments erected by the East India company, with palm trees and other tropical exuberances, to the memory of great soldiers, like Sir Eyre Coote. From the point of view of good taste a dictator would be justified in dismissing these and many more to the stonemason's yard.—Cornhill Magazine.

How Pausanius Died.

Pausanius the Greek general, died by self administered poison. When hotly pursued by those sent to apprehend him on a charge of treason and sacrilege he took refuge in the sanctuary of a temple. Unable to remove him by force and also unwilling to violate the sanctuary, the officers walled up the entrance and began to unroof the building. When he could be seen they noticed that he was chewing something which proved to be a quill filled with poison. By the time the work had sufficiently advanced to admit of their entrance he was in a dying condition.

The Origin of the "Marseillaise"

In the reign of terror under Pieron and Barras when hundreds of victims were carved by the guillotine and the people rose against the aristocracy was born the hymn of France composed by Rouget de Lisle. He was an officer of engineers and at a banquet was asked to compose a war song. He wrote it in his room that night before going to bed and the next morning his hostess the wife of the mayor of Strassburg tried it on a piano, and in the afternoon the orchestra of the theater played it in the square of Strassburg where it created much excitement and gathered many volunteers. Rouget called it a song for the Army of the Rhine, but subsequently it was sung by a regiment of volunteers mostly assassins, who marched out of Marseilles to Paris where it was appropriated by the capital and called the "Hymne des Marseillais." But Joseph Rouget, the author, died in poverty.—Desbler Welch in Harper's Magazine.

A Modest Request.

An impeccably dressed gentleman the other day when walking along Piccadilly felt a movement in his pocket and clapping his hand thereto, seized the wrist of the thief. He drew forth the erring member, and, looking at it with supreme disgust, he released it, saying with a grimace of disgust, "For heaven's sake, my good man, go and wash your hands before you put them in a gentleman's pocket again!"—London Tatler.

Made Him Feel Old.

"What's the matter?"

"Oh, nothing much."

"But you look as if you had something serious on your mind."

"Well, if you insist on knowing, a boy who was named after me has just become engaged to be married. How time flies!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Dollar Mark.

"Have you seen the Washington monument?"

"Yes," replied the New Yorker. "It's a pretty tall building, but what's the good of it without any others for rent?"—Washington Star.

[illegible] ANNOYED.

The Directors Were Rather Pleased at the Barrister's Refusal.

Mr Reader Harris K C was once offered a brief marked 50 guineas on behalf of a railway company that wished to obtain a refreshment license for a particular railway station. He returned the brief on conscientious grounds but later on it was sent back to him with a fee of 100 guineas marked on it. This time he returned it with a note in which he explained that his refusal was due to a matter of principle. Subsequently he met one of the directors of the company and expressed a hope that he and his colleagues were not annoyed at his conduct.

"Not at all," said the director. "I'll tell you all about it. So-and-so the big brewer was sitting on the board for the first time at the meeting at which the solicitor reported that your brief marked 50 guineas had been returned. 'Who's this person singing humbug?' he asked. 'Mark the brief 100 guineas and I'll bet you anything you like he'll take it.' 'Oh you will will you?' asked the chairman. 'You see we all knew you Harris. We took the brewer on at 5 to 1 in five pound notes. He booked the bets with every one of us, and he has paid up.'—London Scraps.

PILES DISAPPEAR

So Does Eczema, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Old Sores and Carbuncles

Under the influence of San Cura Ointment surprising cures are made so quickly that they seem like miracles.

Old sores that have caused the most intense suffering in body and mind, and that have failed to yield to any other treatment are quickly healed after the poison has been drawn out by San Cura Ointment

Stubborn cases of piles like those of Rev. W. F. Gilbert of Titusville, Pa., vanish before his marvelous antiseptic Ointment. Mr. Gilbert writes:

Roused His Suspicions.

A naval officer was speaking of the extortions of innkeepers in out of the way parts of the globe.

"In Montenegro once," he said, "I asked for my bill after having slept overnight at a certain inn, and as soon as the document was handed to me I took out my purse to settle it. I did not bother to verify the various items. What would have been the use?

"But my readiness to pay amazed the landlord. He thought a moment, and then he said uneasily:

"'Will you let me have another look at that bill, sir? I think I have omitted something.'"
